2014 PREVIEW

Hello all,

I hope you enjoyed the bounty the 2013 season brought!

2013 harvest baskets

Once again this winter I'm extending a special invitation to our previous customers. It will give you an opportunity to ensure your share in next year's harvest.

Due to the high demand for shares in previous years we have sold out all of our shares in a month or less! As a result some of our valued customers have been left out, being just a week or two late in sending in an application.

Offering early sign ups for previous year's customers completely eliminates that problem.

There are three great reasons you should sign up now.

WHY SIGN UP NOW?

✿ Security

Signing up now guarantees a share in next years harvest. Because we are such a small farm, CSA shares are very limited and in high demand.

✿ Economy

Our shares offer high quality naturally grown vegetables at great prices. Averaging just $17 a basket. As always extras are free (as available) for canning, freezing and pickling.

Signing up now only requires a $50 deposit. Full amount due next June.

✿ Quality

My rule of thumb has always been, if I wouldn't want it in my basket it won't show up in yours! All of our vegetables are thoroughly washed in cold water, which maximizes freshness and minimizes the amount of work you have to do when you get them home.

What's in Store for 2014?

No two seasons are the same but it seems for every crop failure we get twice as much of something else! Remember last season's ridiculous amounts of potatoes, beets, greens, and cucumbers?

Once again, we have a ton (probably literally) of leaves for mulching. That will help both to suppress weeds, and it will enrich the soil. We're focusing on some of our heavier clay fields and hoping to see significant improvement this season.

We're also implementing a new irrigation method of trenching with our tomatoes which should improve yields.

Our website will again be updated with your weekly newsletter featuring fantastic recipes. And I'm working on a new newsletter format.

I hope you'll join us for the 2014 Season!
